Good to see you, Ed. Thank you for all your work for WFOP.

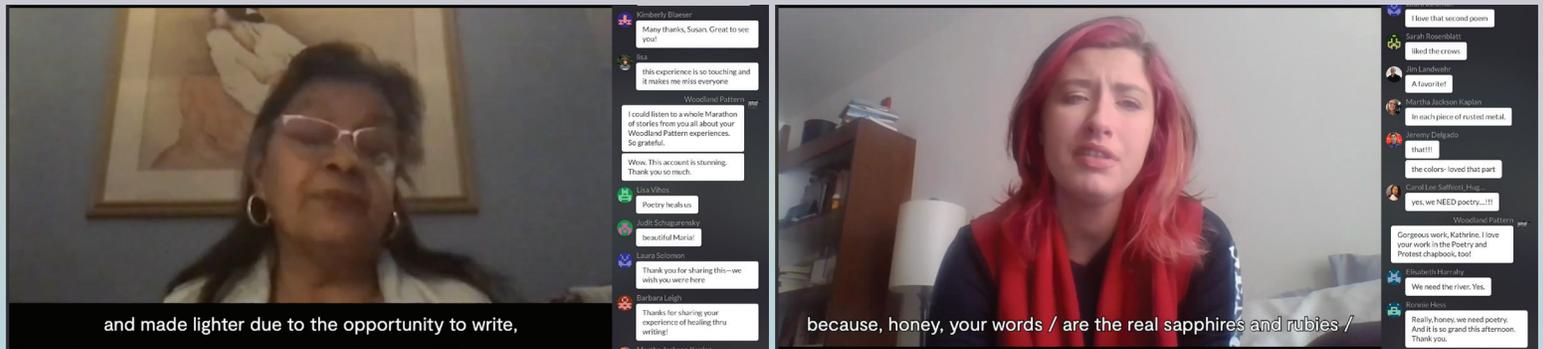

Scott Lowery
Yeah, like clockwork.

WHO WE ARE

Woodland Pattern is a poet- and artist-run nonprofit center that has been serving Milwaukee since 1979. For forty years, we have acted as a bridge between local and national communities of writers, musicians, and artists while offering a space for people in our immediate community to gather, learn, perform, share ideas, and build relationships that make our city stronger. By supporting us, you help promote a lifetime practice of reading and writing in Milwaukee through programs that encourage exchange across the performing, visual, and literary arts.

INVESTING IN A LIFETIME PRACTICE OF READING & WRITING

- Help us serve 19,000+ people of all ages, backgrounds, and income levels.
- Help us present 300+ programs, including writing and book discussion groups, poetry readings and spoken word performances, concerts, films, art exhibitions, public murals, workshops for adults, and after-school classes and summer camps for children and youth.
- Uplift young people. Over a third of our programs serve children and youth, 96% of whom are economically disadvantaged. Our year-round inter-arts writing classes help improve self-confidence, promote higher levels of literacy, and increase graduation rates.
- Support seniors. Approximately 50% of our adult programs involve artists 55+ in age. Reading, writing, and the arts have proven mental, social, physical, and emotional benefits for older people.
- Support historically marginalized and/or underserved people. Many of our community groups and reading series specifically address the needs of vulnerable populations such as veterans, seniors, Native Americans, people of color, and those who identify as LGBTQ+.
- Be a champion for poetry and non-commercial literature. Our nonprofit book center supports poets, independent publishers, book artists, local writers, and self-published authors in ways that are inconceivable for a commercial bookseller.
- Preserve a one-of-a-kind cultural resource. Our 25,000+ titles include the largest collections of haiku in North America, of small-press poetry in the U.S., and of Native American literature in Wisconsin. Our center also houses the largest selection anywhere of books by Wisconsin writers—all available to read on-site with no pressure to purchase.

POETRY MARATHON

For more than a quarter-century, poets from Milwaukee and the region have traditionally convened at Woodland Pattern on the last Saturday of January to participate in a 15-hour marathon reading. In 2021, unable to safely host the event in person at the book center, we opted for a live streamed version and—to compensate for not being in person—expanded the Poetry Marathon to 24 hours, ultimately welcoming 268 participants as well as more than 2,000 audience members who hailed not only from Milwaukee and Wisconsin but also from across the United States and 18 different countries.

In 2022, we are again planning for a 24-hour virtual marathon. This year's event will take place on Saturday, January 29 and on Sunday, January 30 from 10 am to 10 pm both days. All 24 hours will be livestreamed via Crowdcast. Once more, celebrated small presses are being invited to curate hours in addition to those curated by local and regional poets and organizations. As usual, each poet appearing will read for up to five minutes and will be sponsored by a business, friend, or relative. These contributions will then be matched by a corporate or private sponsor for the hour and supplemented by presenting, premier, and supporting sponsorships.

The Poetry Marathon has always been critical to Woodland Pattern's programming and operations, as it helps us begin each year on solid financial footing. Since the pandemic, the Marathon has only grown in importance as a fundraiser. Last year, we needed to raise not only enough funds to cover the loss of an in-person Marathon, but also our canceled 2020 Fall Gala. Happily, we exceeded our goal and raised $37,000. This year, having once again been forced to forgo a gala, we find ourselves in similar circumstances, but also with new opportunities on the horizon: In 2022, Woodland Pattern will help introduce a new Milwaukee Youth Poet Laureate program that will make creative writing a mainstay in our city's public schools. As a sponsor of the 28th Annual Poetry Marathon, you will therefore not only help usher in Woodland Pattern's 42nd consecutive season of programming but will also have an outsized impact on the success of this promising new initiative.

Thank you in advance for supporting our work and for joining us in honoring the many individual creative practices that compose and enrich our vast community. As always it's the grand mix of voices that makes Woodland Pattern's Poetry Marathon an authentic celebration of our shared humanity and the possibilities of language.
